

The Camel Riders Welcome Three New Committers

The Apache Camel project is growing at the same steady pace we got used to with strong support from our community. The project would not be what it is without the community contributions.

Now and then contributors stand out not only because of the high quality of the contributions, but also due to the commitment to the project and the time and energy spend on helping other users be as successful in using Camel. This is the case now with three more riders: Scott England-Sullivan, Henryk Konsek and Raul Kripalani. In recognition of their skills and passion the Camel community is proudly announcing them becoming new committers.

On behalf of the Camel PMC, welcome aboard and we expect more great things coming from you!
