

start-server

 shutdown

 Tools and commands

startup

The start-server script for Geronimo that starts Geronimo in the foreground. This command has the following syntax:

start-server

This script calls the gsh script passing geronimo/start-server as the first argument followed by the arguments supplied by the caller. Alternatively you can use the more comprehensive GShell interface directly.

For Windows users, use forward slash "/" instead of the traditional back slash "\" as directory separators within the command. Using back slash may cause errors in processing the command.
